WEEKLY BULLETIN: SUNDAY 19 NOVEMBER 2023

THIRTY-THIRD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME - YEAR A

BEING THE GOOD NEWS ... BY PROMOTING GOD'S HOSPITALITY

Readings this week: Prov 31:10 – 13, 19 – 20, 30 – 31; Ps 127; 1 Thess 5:1 – 6; Mt 25:14 - 30.

Gospel Reflection ~ Greg Sunter

This week's gospel is a very familiar parable and one that is often used with students and young people. It is generally used as an encouragement to make the most of the gifts and skills that the listeners possess. It is rarely, however, placed in its context as part of the full Chapter 25 lesson about the time of waiting and preparation for the coming of the Lord and the Christian life.

Again, the story is presented as a parable of the Kingdom – a glimpse into the right order of things in the realised Kingdom. A very wealthy master entrusts his considerable assets to his servants to manage in his absence. The three servants were allocated money, 'each in proportion to his ability'. The emphasis of the parable is on what each servant did with the funds they were allotted. They were charged with managing the money in the place of their master; acting in their master's place to further develop his wealth.

Like all of Jesus' parables, this one has a sting in the tail. Although the third servant has done nothing illegal or corrupt, he is very harshly dealt with. His crime is laziness! He was given a great opportunity to demonstrate his abilities and yet he shied away and returned to his master exactly what had been entrusted to him, unimproved. The author of Matthew's gospel uses this parable to shock the audience out of complacency. They cannot rely solely on the promised return of the Lord, they must continue to act on Jesus' message and work to bring about the Kingdom in their own lives. Those who fail to act, leaving everything to the work of God, are as bad as the lazy servant who failed to grasp an extraordinary opportunity.

Gospel Focus – Such a talent! In its original usage, a 'talent' was a measure of weight. It came to designate a weight measure of silver. One talent was roughly equivalent to a labourer's wages for 10 years. It was a huge amount of money! Due largely to the reference in this gospel parable the word eventually came to its more common meaning of a special natural ability. Although in its original use in the gospel, 'talent' meant nothing more than a large sum of money, it is a happy development of language that makes this scripture passage such a favourite of teachers and retreat providers!

Living the Gospel – Bring forth the Kingdom. Like the original audience of Matthew's gospel, we can sometimes rely too much on God to bring about the Kingdom in our world. Like the lazy servant in the gospel, we can fall into the trap of handing the world back to God in exactly the same condition that we received it. We have to make a difference in the world! We are called to change the world and bring it closer to the realisation of the Kingdom. The only way that we can do that it is to live our lives as if the Kingdom is already here.

Different View – 'To everyone who has will be given more.' The parable of the talents is sometimes misused to validate an overemphasis on material wealth in many Western societies. There can be an attitude that says 'more is better'; that possessions are a sign of success. Such advocates point to the favour bestowed on the servants who doubled their money and the punishment dealt to the lazy servant who simply returned to his master what he was given. Proponents of the increasingly popular 'gospel of prosperity' hold that God wants Christians to be materially and financially rich and that their wealth is proof of God's love. This stands in stark contrast to Jesus' vision of the Kingdom.

NOVEMBER OFFERING ENVELOPES are available on the table in the foyer/narthex to remember those who have gone before us this month of November.

ON THE JOURNEY THIS WEEK: Fr Mark De Battista says that this is a parable about the Lord trusting us with talents and skills and burying them simply doesn't cut it with the Lord. Mother Hilda has been reading the book of Ezekiel and its recurring line "and they will know that I am God." Fr Tony Percy wonders are we like the third servant, frozen into immobility by our prudent timidity, Mark Raue explains the Preferential Option for the Poor, and Pete Gilmore says life is like a circus big top with Jesus as the ringmaster. Plus, more great music!

SL EMMAUS COLLEGE SCHOOL ADVISORY COUNCIL PARISH REP.

BERNARD O'MALLEY: The Parish acknowledges and genuinely THANKS him for his time, expertise and commitment to this Council on our behalf over a number of years. His has now completed his involvement on this Council and all his children are now finished their Secondary Education. A job certainly well done!

ST & SL PPC acknowledges and THANKS Toni Wynne for her time and talent as a member of it. Toni has recently decided to concentrate on her commitment to our local St V. de P. Conference.

SL & ST THANKYOU PARISHIONERS FOR ALL YOUR FEEDBACK on the proposed relocation of the 10.30am Sunday morning Mass from St Luke the Evangelist to St Timothy's that will occur on 3rd December 2023 – the First Sunday of Advent. The PPC met this past week and as there has been no better proposal suggested for our 'One Mission Two Parishes' with one appointed priest it was decided to forge ahead with the challenge at hand for all of us.

VCE STUDENTS have finished their 2023 examinations and, therefore, now is the time for us to reflect on their hard work, with the dedicated support of teachers throughout their primary and secondary education. Well done to all our Year 12 Parishioners reaching this milestone in their young lives.

SAFETY STATEMENT: We are committed to a safe and nurturing culture for all children and vulnerable persons in our Church. Saint Luke the Evangelist Parish Blackburn South holds the care, safety, wellbeing of children and vulnerable persons as central and fundamental responsibilities of the Church. This commitment is drawn from and inherent to the teaching and mission of Jesus Christ, with love, justice and the sanctity of each human person at the heart of the Gospel.

Readings and Commentaries

Woman, wife, mother, social campaigner for migrant women and families, devout Catholic – Caroline Chisholm was all these things and more. In Sydney's St Mary's Cathedral, on Easter Sunday in 1841, she dedicated herself to serve God and neighbour. Her self-offering cost her dearly as she later recalled:

"During the season of Lent of that year, I suffered much, but on the Easter Sunday, I was enabled, at the altar of our Lord, to make an offering of my talents to the God who gave them. I promised to know neither country nor creed, but to try and serve all justly and impartially. . . I felt my offering was accepted and that God's blessing was on my work; but it was his will to permit many serious difficulties to be thrown in my way, and to conduct me through a rugged path of deep humiliation" (Cited in Rodney Stinson. See, Judge, Act: Caroline Chisholm's Lay Apostolate, Sydney: Yorkcross, 2009, 27).

It may have been a way of the cross for her, but her never-say-die determination and enterprise brought untold blessings to the migrant women and families she served.

A reading from the book of Proverbs

31:10–13, 19–20, 30–31

A perfect wife – who can find her?
She is far beyond the price of pearls.
Her husband's heart has confidence in her,
from her he will derive no little profit.
Advantage and not hurt she brings him
all the days of her life.
She is always busy with wool and with flax,
she does her work with eager hands.
She sets her hands to the distaff,
her fingers grasp the spindle.
She holds out her hand to the poor,
she opens her arms to the needy.
Charm is deceitful, and beauty empty;
the woman who is wise is the one to praise.
Give her a share in what her hands have worked for,
and let her works tell her praises at the city gates.

First Reading

The final chapter of the book of Proverbs is an alphabetical psalm in praise of the “perfect wife”. Two things are useful to bear in mind with regard to this idealised portrait of the married woman. The first is that it may have been added to the work to serve as a counter-balance to the negative portrayal of women in its early chapters. The second is that in spite of the constraints of ancient patriarchal societies this woman has an appreciable degree of agency.

That said, there is no doubt that her qualities are assessed in terms of their value to her husband: “from her he will derive no little profit . . . Advantage and not hurt she brings him”. She is praised for her weaving skills and for her generosity to the poor, but the lectionary text omits reference to her enterprise in buying land and planting a vineyard, and in trading her wares with merchants. What we hear puts the emphasis on her domestic role and the honour she brings her husband, neither of which will appeal to a contemporary congregation that takes marriage equality and women's careers for granted.

The choice of the reading will only become clear when the gospel parable of the talents is read. In anticipation of that story, the ideal wife is presented as a model of initiative. She's industrious and puts her gifts to good use. Some readers may have to overcome their reluctance to subscribe to this idealisation if they are to proclaim the text well. Each of the two-line units should be respected in the delivery.

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 127:1–5

R. Happy are those who fear the Lord.
O blessed are those who fear the Lord
and walk in his ways!
By the labour of your hands you shall eat.
You will be happy and prosper. R.
Your wife like a fruitful vine
in the heart of your house;
your children like shoots of the olive,
around your table. R.
Indeed thus shall be blessed
the man who fears the Lord.
May the Lord bless you from Zion
in a happy Jerusalem
all the days of your life. R.

Responsorial Psalm

While the first reading remained within the matrix of patriarchal life, it did pay homage to the gifts and virtues of the “perfect wife”. The responsorial psalm switches the focus back to the male head of the household. The response seems inclusive – “Happy are those who fear the Lord” – but the first verse quickly homes in on the working man whose labour will provide food and prosperity for the home.

A man like this who respects the Lord and lives accordingly will be blessed with a fertile wife and an abundance of children. Furthermore, the happiness of families like this will overflow into the community and create “a happy Jerusalem”. The key to all this blessedness is the faithful following of the way of the Lord.

Apart from the short final verse, the whole of Psalm 127/128 is used for the responsorial psalm. In all likelihood, the assembly will hear and understand the response as inclusive of all believers, but the verses do stand in tension with this. Readers should respect the poetry of the short lines and also take care with the final five-line stanza.

A reading from the first letter of St Paul to the Thessalonians 5:1–6

You will not be expecting us to write anything to you, brothers, about ‘times and seasons,’ since you know very well that the Day of the Lord is going to come like a thief in the night. It is when people are saying, ‘How quiet and peaceful it is,’ that the worst suddenly happens, as suddenly as labour pains come on a pregnant woman; and there will be no way for anybody to evade it.

But it is not as if you live in the dark, my brothers, for that Day to overtake you like a thief. No, you are all sons of light and sons of the day: we do not belong to the night or to darkness, so we should not go on sleeping, as everyone else does, but stay wide awake and sober.

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Matthew 25:14–30

Jesus spoke this parable to his disciples: ‘The kingdom of heaven is like a man on his way abroad who summoned his servants and entrusted his property to them. To one he gave five talents, to another two, to a third one; each in proportion to his ability. Then he set out. [The man who had received the five talents promptly went and traded with them and made five more. The man who had received two made two more in the same way. But the man who had received one went off and dug a hole in the ground and hid his master’s money.] Now a long time after, the master of those servants came back and went through his accounts with them. The man who had received the five talents came forward bringing five more. “Sir”, he said “you entrusted me with five talents; here are five more that I have made.” His master said to him, “Well done, good and faithful servant; you have shown you can be faithful in small things, I will trust you with greater; come and join in your master’s happiness.” [Next the man with the two talents came forward. “Sir,” he said “you entrusted me with two talents; here are two more that I have made.” His master said to him, “Well done, good and faithful servant; you have shown you can be faithful in small things, I will trust you with greater; come and join in your master’s happiness.” Last came forward the man who had the one talent. “Sir,” said he “I had heard you were a hard man, reaping where you have not sown and gathering where you have not scattered; so I was afraid, and I went off and hid your talent in the ground. Here it is; it was yours, you have it back.” But his master answered him, “You wicked and lazy servant! So you knew that I reap where I have not sown and gather where I have not scattered? Well then, you should have deposited my money with the bankers, and on my return I would have recovered my capital with interest. So now, take the talent from him and give it to the man who has the five talents. For to everyone who has will be given more, and he will have more than enough; but from the man who has not, even what he has will be taken away. As for this good-for-nothing servant, throw him out into the dark, where there will be weeping and grinding of teeth.””]

[Short Form: omit text in brackets.]

Second Reading

It seems that some of the Thessalonians had grown complacent, believing that “the Day of the Lord” had already come in the death and resurrection of Jesus. As a result, they considered themselves no longer subject to judgement. Paul is at pains to disillusion them.

While at no time speculating as to when this Day would arrive, he warns them it will take them by surprise if they aren’t ready for it. They run the risk of being caught napping. Paul uses two contrasting images to make his point – the householder taken unawares by a night-time thief and the expectant mother whose pregnancy suddenly erupts in birth. One has unhappy consequences, the other joyful.

Paul implies that the Thessalonians are letting themselves be mesmerised by the Roman propaganda phrase “peace and security”. Without spelling out how, Paul clearly implies that the Day of the Lord will call them to account. They must stay wide awake, remain sober and live as children of the light – advice that may bring last Sunday’s parable of the ten wedding attendants to mind.

This final reading from 1 Thessalonians has an ominous tone which readers should not play down, but it also has an encouraging reminder that believers are children of light and of the day. The NRSV renders the text in inclusive language.

Gospel

This second-last parable in Matthew’s gospel maintains Jesus’ focus on the final judgement. The story of the wealthy traveller who entrusts three slaves with large but varying sums of money is long and repetitious. The lectionary allows an abbreviated version to be read, but this completely deprives the parable of its purpose. It aims to deliver a stern warning. Jesus’ followers have been blessed with the gift of the kingdom. Accepting this gift brings with it the obligation to live the reign of God adventurously and advocate for it enthusiastically.

The parable as we have it has been heavily allegorised. It testifies to Jesus’ willingness to use the “ways of the world” as a vehicle for his teaching. He dares to associate God’s expectations of believers with the master’s economic ruthlessness. He’s unafraid to run the risk of reinforcing an image of God as harsh and punitive. This presents homilists with a challenge but no sound reason for choosing to proclaim the truncated version. Preachers can make the point that Jesus is telling this story when he is on the brink of wagering his whole life and mission. Fear of failure does not deter him. Nor should it paralyse his followers from testifying to the good news.

Concluding Blessing

May the peace of God,
which surpasses all understanding,
keep our hearts and minds
in the knowledge and love of God,
and of his Son, our Lord Jesus Christ.

Amen.

And may the blessing of almighty God,
the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit,
come down on us and remain with us for ever.

Amen.

St Timothy's - St. Vincent de Paul Society Christmas Appeal 2023

This bulletin note is to again seek your support for St Timothy's (Forest Hill) St Vincent de Paul Society's 'Christmas Appeal'.

As you know, due to current cost of living increases and with inflation still running high, being present in the community to assist people experiencing poverty and disadvantage will again be very important this Christmas.

Our appeal this year will be conducted over the weekends of the 18th/19th November and the 25th/26th November.

Our Christmas Appeal has been adapted so that donations can be made by calling 131812 or online at vinnies.org.au. Donors can direct their gift to our Conference by entering 'Forest Hill' in the comments field. Also, there are postage paid envelopes available in the church foyer for cash, cheque or credit card donations. Cash and cheque donations can be deposited in the church poor boxes whilst credit card donations should be posted.

Alternatively, we are also appealing for goods including non-perishable food and toiletries and these items can be left at the Piety Stall. Please note we are not seeking donations of gifts this year. The people we assist have indicated a preference for gift cards so they can purchase a wanted gift for their children. Donated gift cards can be deposited in the church poor boxes, and we would need them by the weekend of 9th/10th December to meet our distribution timetable please.

Regarding non-perishable food and toiletries, some examples of useful items could include:

Canned food

- Fruit – peaches, pears, apricots, pineapple, fruit salad, 2-fruits.
- Vegetables – tomatoes, peas, beans, baby potatoes, carrots, asparagus.
- Soup – condensed soups including tomato, vegetable, chicken & vegetable, beef varieties and meat-vegetable combinations.
- Other – spaghetti, baked beans, canned meat with vegetables.

Packet food

- Pasta and pasta sauce, rice, breakfast cereal, "instant" meals (e.g., instant noodles).

Personal care & hygiene

- toilet paper, soap, shampoo, toothpaste.

All donations received are used for the local needs of the St. Timothy's (Forest Hill) Conference of St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Wishing you all the blessings of a happy and holy Christmas, we thank you again for your generous support now and over the past 48 plus years.
